

Christmas 2009

My family and I went to our Grandma Mary's house for Christmas. It was really bad outside. We were in a blizzard and we were getting stuck in the snow. I thought it was super fun but at the same time it was scary. It was scary because we could not even see outside the car windows. We were on our way to Buffalo and it took us a long time to get there but it was worth it.

We were in the car listening to Christmas music to help us through the storm. I was thinking about my family and how much fun I would have. I also thought it was going to be a really fun day. We arrived at my Grandma's house safe and sound. When we got there the food was done and it was dinner time. We began to eat, ham, turkey, corn and more. We had to sit at the kids table because there was a lot of older people in our family. So my cousins and my brothers and I got to sit at the kid's table. When we were done we opened our gifts. My cousin and I are addicted to video games and we got MW2 for one of our gifts. We were playing MW2 and I looked outside and it was getting really bad. We could not leave for another hour. My dad went to go see if he could get the car to start. I was getting nervous because the next day was Christmas and all of our gifts were at our house. But my dad walked in and he told all of us that we could not leave. I was so mad. After a few minutes I realized it still was a great time at my grandma's. It was most memorable because it was the first time we did not spend Christmas at our house.

As you can see I had a great Christmas party at my Grandma's house. I was able to see my family and we ate tons of food. I still had a great time. If we did not have family we would be lost without them because we would not get anything for Christmas. I would not have a place to stay and eat. I also would not have someone I could depend on in my family.
